The parents and the unmarried sisters go to live in the k'hang-gu or small house (which may be either a small part of the large house, or a separate one on the family land, or even lodgings in some one else's house if a k'hang-gu cannot be afforded by the family), while the eldest son or daughter takes over the major portion of the household which is called the K'hang-chen.

The reason for doing things in this way is, I was told by Joseph Gergan on the 6th October 1938, that bride and mother-in-law unless separated, are sure to quarrel. A Tibetan proverb says:

P'ha gNyen-bo sGo rGyap-la
Ma gNyen-bo Gog sBugs-la

which means:

"The father's relations are behind the door
The mother's relations are right inside the hearth."

Or, in other words, that the relations of the husband(s) should be turned out, while the wife's relations can always be sure of a warm welcome in in the home – that is in a bag-ma household; in a mag-pa one this naturally does not apply.

Reasons for the existence of this special custom, valid for both bag-ma and mag-pa marriage, have been given as the fact that the parents are getting old (after fifty, Ladakis, like Tibetans, age very quickly), and that, for this reason, they can no longer assume responsibility for the cultivation of the land, nor continue to bear the burden of the recurring festivals, etc. So they go into the k'hang-gu where they have no obligations any more, and leave their newly wedded children to shoulder the charges which go with possession of the k'hang-chen.

The k'hang-gu consists of a smaller house, standing generally on the land of the k'hang-chen, and of the fields called To-zhing (lTo-zhing), "food-field", necessary for the maintenance of the persons who live in it. No charges or dues are collected from the k'hang-gu by the Kashmir State, and those who live in it do so absolutely freely. The portion of the father or fathers is called p'ha-skal (P'ha-skal), and that of the mother ma-skal (Ma-skal), for such division between parents is observed. Unmarried sisters live on the p'ha-skal.

The fields of the k'hang-gu can be cultivated by the inhabitants of the k'hang-chen; this saves trouble for the old folk. But if no such labour is forthcoming, then the ma-skal will be cultivated by the relatives of the mother, while the fathers and the unmarried sisters will look after the p'ha'skal.

Apart from land to be tilled, there are some animals in the k'hang-gu
